The system of numbering the buildings in the city is easily understood. Douglas avenue is the basis for numbering north and south, and Main street is the basis for numbering east and west. This system of 100 to the block was adopted by the city council August 25, 1884.

Beginning at Main street and going east the streets crossing Douglas avenue are:

Market Street,	Washington Avenue,
Lawrence Avenue,	Ida Avenue,
Topeka Avenue,	Laura Avenue,
Emporia Avenue,	Pattie Avenue,
Fourth Avenue.	Lulu Avenue,
Fifth Avenue,	Ellis Avenue,
Mead Avenue,	Fannie Avenue,
Mosley Avenue,	Hydraulic Avenue.

From Main street going west on Douglas avenue:

Water Street,	Oak Street, (W. Wichita.)
Wichita Street.	Osage Street, " "
Waco Street,	Wichita Street, " "
The Arkansas river,	Walnut Street. " "
Sycamore Street, (West Wichita.)

Beginning at Douglas avenue and going north the streets crossing Main street are:

First Street,	Oak Street,
Second Street,	Walnut Street,
Third Street,	Park Street,
Central Avenue,	Tenth Street,
Elm Street,	Eleventh Street,
Pine Street,	Thirteenth Street.

From Douglas avenue going south on Main street:

INTRODUCTION.

WICHITA undoubtedly is the most flourishing and rapidly growing city in the State of Kansas. Already it contains a population of seventeen thousand, and is supplied with all the necessary adjuncts of other cities of the same size. The city is situated on the east bank of the Arkansas river, in one of the most fertile and productive valleys in America, 227 miles southwest of Kansas City and 550 miles west of St. Louis. Three great railroad lines connect the City with all points East, West, North and South, and other lines are in process of construction. About five miles of street railroad are in successful operation; all portions of the city are supplied with water and gas pipes; two and three-story brick business houses extend, on both sides of two of the principal streets, for several squares; a great iron bridge spans the river; elevators, mills, iron foundries, public and private buildings, and nearly all other interests which contribute towards making a prosperous city, are found here.

Within the past few years the city has grown very rapidly; property has greatly enhanced in value; hundreds of dwellings have been built, and thousands of people have been added to our numbers.

The need of a new and complete directory is acknowledged by all, and that this one will meet the wants of the public is confidently believed by the publishers. Conscientious and diligent work for several weeks has brought out this volume, by far the largest and most complete directory ever issued for this city. We return thanks to all patrons, and those who, by their influence, have made this enterprise a success, confidently hoping it may prove a treasure in their hands for all purposes intended.
